“Dual Naming” means giving a regional park or park feature two names (for example, an English language name and a nsyilxcən name);

“First Nation(s)” means syilx/Okanagan people whose asserted traditional, unceded territory falls within the boundaries of the Regional District;

“Naming” means giving a regional or community park or park feature a name;

“nsyilxcən” is the language spoken by and distinguishes the syilx/Okanagan people from other Indigenous peoples;

“Park Features” refers to park sites, natural features, trails, facilities and structures, portions of facilities or structures, or other regional park assets;

“Regional or Community Historical or Cultural Significance” means a place that is strongly associated or identified with ways of life, events or people that had an important influence on the history and development of the region or a community. To be historically or culturally significant, a place should be the location where an event occurred, or contain in situ authentic remains or physical artifacts related to, or characteristic of, the way of life, the event or the person for which recognition is being proposed, and should lend itself to the interpretation and presentation of related information to the public; and “Support” means, in relation to an individual’s name, a letter of support from that person or their family (if deceased), in relation to a nsyilxcən name, a council resolution (or equivalent) in support of the nsyilxcən name from the First Nation or First Nations whose traditional territory includes the Regional or Community Park

POLICY STATEMENT:

- 1.1. Naming, renaming, and dedication of regional and community parks and park features is a way to celebrate the Central Okanagan’s unique history and cultural diversity, and to recognize donors and those who have provided services to regional and community parks.
- 1.2. The Regional District of Central Okanagan acknowledges the Truth and Reconciliation Calls to Action. This policy specifically supports Call to Action #14 Language and Culture: Aboriginal languages are a fundamental and valued element of Canadian culture and society and there is an urgency to preserve them.
- 1.3. The Regional District of Central Okanagan’s practice is to name regional and community parks as well as park features using geography, local history, or tradition. In appropriate circumstances and in accordance with this Policy, regional and community parks and park features may be named, renamed, or dedicated after a donor, local government or Indigenous leader.
- 1.4. All regional and community parks and park features can be named, renamed, or dedicated.
- 1.5. Naming, renaming or dedication may be acknowledged with a ceremony.
- 1.6. Any naming, renaming, or dedication must be approved by the Regional District of Central Okanagan’s Board of Directors.

New Parks

- 2.1. Subject to the exceptions listed below, new parks will be named for their location or significant geographic features with which they are associated.
- 2.2. All park names must also contain the words “Regional Park” or “Community Park” in conjunction with the Regional District of Central Okanagan service program that is associated with the relevant park’s annual budget process (i.e., Regional Parks Service Program, Electoral Area Central Okanagan West Community Parks Service Program, Electoral Area Central Okanagan East Community Parks Service Program)

New Park Exceptions

- 2.3. Regional or Community Historical or Cultural Significance

- 2.3.1. In rare cases, a park may be given a name with regional or community historical or cultural significance, if, during the park land acquisition or planning process, there is evidence of broad regional or community support for the proposed name.

2.4. First Nations Names

- 2.4.1. Where a First Nation proposes a name for a new park the name proposed by the First Nation may be used as the name of the park or the park may be co-named with an English language name identified in accordance with this policy.

2.5. Commemorative or Honourific Names

- 2.5.1. Where a person donated the land that comprises a new park or has otherwise made a significant and enduring contribution to the regional or community park in question, or to the RDCO park system generally, other than as part of that person's employment, a new regional or community park may be named for that person, or given the name that the person or the person's family (if the person is deceased) suggests for the park.
- 2.5.2. Other than in a case where a person has donated the land that has become the regional or community park, the Regional District of Central Okanagan will not consider naming a new park after a person until at least 2 years have passed since the date of the person's death.
- 2.5.3. Lands that are donated for addition to existing parks will not be given a name that is different from that of the park to which the land is being added.

Existing Parks

- 3.1. Subject to the exceptions listed below, existing regional and community parks will not be renamed.

Existing Park Exceptions

3.2. First Nations Names

- 3.2.1. An existing regional or community park may be renamed or given a nsyilxcən co-name with the existing English name where a First Nation requests that an existing park be renamed or co-named and collaborates the RDCO Parks Department in accordance with Section 4 of this policy demonstrating that the location reflects a culturally important place, person, way of life or event.

3.3. Regional or Community Historical or Cultural Significance

- 3.3.1. A request to rename a regional or community park will be brought forward to the RDCO Board for consideration where a person or a community group:

Staff will report back to the RDCO Board of Directors with the results of any such consultation and seek a RDCO Board decision.
- j. Following the selection of a new name, RDCO Parks staff will notify relevant public bodies, government agencies, emergency responders, internal departments (for updates to databases), Google Maps, and other groups as needed, of this change.
